Hooker, Thomas, 1586-1647. A survey of the summe of church-discipline. ... 1648. (Card 2)

In four parts.
The authors preface is followed by an Epistle to the reader, subscribed by Edward Houghton and William Goodwin, Hartford, 28 Oct. 1647: a poem "In obsequium viri doctissimi Thomae Hookeri," by Samuel Stone, others by John Cotton and E. Rogers; and a further commendation to the reader by Thomas Goodwin, April 17, 1648.

Some copies of the work John Cotton's "The way of Congregational churches cleared" was appended. Mr. Cotton's treatise contains the answers to Butterfield, begun by Mr. Hooker in pt. 1, chap. 10, which ends on p. 138, the next poem is blank, and chapter 11 follows, numbered 180 with a new signature. It is thought that it may have been the location of the editors to incorporate Mr. Cotton's work in this division of the survey, between p. 138 and 140.

"This book began its career in 1914 bearing an altogether peculiar title of 'Medical police', as a short attention to its history in the text-book of public health. In the seventh edition the book was published as Buchanan and Hope's Text-book of forensic medicine and public health, but in the eighth edition ... 1915, this union of two rather dissimilar subjects was severed and 'Public health' was treated as a separate volume under the authorship of Professor Hope. Four plays of St. Clare, by Laurence Housman. London, Sidgwick & Jackson, Ltd., 1934.
vi, 48, 1, p. 194*.

These plays have been written in response to the request of certain performers of the "Little plays of St. Francis" who wished more parts to be available for their women members than those plays provided.
Though remaining a separate publication they give a true historical proportion to the "Little plays" and may be combined with them. cf.
Pref.
